INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The fund seeks high current income and, secondarily, capital appreciation.

Invest primarily in floating-rate bank loans (also known as leveraged loans) and other floating-rate debt securities with below investment-grade credit ratings.

Broadly diversified across 200-300 issuers, with strict exposure limits to manage risk.

At least 80% of assets are invested in floating-rate bank loans and corporate senior floating-rate notes issued by companies rated below investment grade.

A maximum of 20% of assets can be invested in fixed-rate debt securities, including high-yield bonds.

BENEFITS AND RISKS

The floating-rate feature virtually eliminates interest rate risk.

Bank loans typically rank higher in the capital structure for repayment.

Low historical return correlations with other asset classes, including high-yield bonds, make bank loans a diversifier for equity and fixed-income portfolios.

The loans and debt securities held by the fund are usually considered speculative and involve a greater risk of default and price decline than higher-rated bonds.

This fund could have greater price declines than a fund that invests primarily in high-quality bonds or loans.

Definitions

Beta: A measure of market risk of an investment option that shows how responsive the investment is to a given market index, such as the Standard & Poor's 500 Index. By definition, the beta of the benchmark is 1.00. An investment with a beta of 1.10 is expected to perform 10% better than the index in up markets and 10% worse in down markets. Usually, higher betas represent riskier investments.
